To illustrate practical applications, this review examines specific classroom case studies:

Case Study 1: Implementing Circle Time

A third-grade classroom integrated daily circle discussions led by Roxann Kriete?s protocols. Within two weeks, teachers observed a measurable decrease in behavioral incidents and an increase in student self-regulation. Students reported feeling more comfortable sharing ideas and concerns.

Case Study 2: Mindfulness in Action

In a middle school setting, Paula Denton?s mindfulness exercises at the start of the day contributed to calmer classrooms. Teachers noted fewer disciplinary referrals and more focused academic work.

Challenges and Limitations Encountered

Despite positive outcomes, implementing these methods during the first six weeks also posed challenges:

- Adequate staff training on trauma-informed practices was sometimes lacking.
- Variability in student backgrounds required differentiated approaches.
- Resistance from some students accustomed to traditional routines.
- Time constraints in covering curriculum while establishing routines.

Addressing these challenges often required ongoing professional development and flexibility from educators.

Implications for Practice and Policy

The evidence suggests that early investment in relationship-building, routines, and social-emotional learning pays dividends in classroom management and student well-being. Schools adopting Denton and Kriete?s approaches should consider:

- Comprehensive staff training programs prior to school opening.
- Allocating time for community-building activities.
- Integrating social-emotional curricula into core instruction.
- Ongoing assessment of student emotional health.

Furthermore, policy frameworks that prioritize trauma-informed practices and restorative justice can sustain these initiatives beyond initial weeks.
